2019 OSU Alumni Survey

Survey Report – Multimedia Journalism

The OSU Alumni Survey is a survey designed to collect information about OSU graduated students. More specifically, it is designed to collect information on their career, educational achievements, and their experience with OSU. This information will be used to improve academic programs and student experiences at OSU for generations to come. This survey targeted alumni of undergraduate and graduate programs who received their degree in 2013 and/or 2017. The survey was administered online by OSU-University Assessment and Testing (UAT) in April 2019 through June 2019. Departments may request additional information by contacting UAT (assessment@okstate.edu).

Survey Questions

Respondents were asked 37 institutional level items. 36. What could OSU have done to better serve you?

Not much. I have a degree in journalism but am not a journalist nor have a high paying job so I wish I could have been steered toward a business degree.

More faculty with internship connections to major organizations would have been nice. I would love for OSU to update its journalism building; OSU has a great program, but I felt prospective students were turned off by the building itself. As a former journalist turned communications professional, it would be nice to see a more integrated curriculum, combining strategic comms and multimedia journalism courses.

Better facilities and technology in the journalism building

Hire better advisors in general that actually ADVISE and help/guide young students. In my opinion, that's OSU's biggest flaw.

Put less money into football and Greek life and put more into education

Eliminate some of the general education requirements. I enjoyed the classes outside of my major, but the extra student loans were not worth it.

Upgrade the journalism building, that thing is so old.

37. What additional information would you like OSU to know?

I have many memories in Stillwater I will never forget. Go Pokes

36. What could OSU have done to better serve you?
Updates to the journalism building and technology
Upgrade the Paul Miller School of Broadcasting & Journalism building
Building a job network with alumni and companies to further enhance hiring of grads (internships and careers) in a difficult, shrinking job market in my field (journalism/media).
Better awareness of groups
Make me feel more included
have more classes focused on the insight to the actual work force. Not all internships did a great job showing what the day to day and week to week look like whether that's in an office setting or different.

37. What additional information would you like OSU to know?
I learned so much at Oklahoma State, especially in my field, and remain in contact with many of these professors that taught me invaluable skills. However, a lot of my classmates and myself are often S.O.L. in additional similar job fields because my education was so specific and our industry is slashing jobs globally.
OSU gave me depression because of my social interactions there.

2019 OSU Alumni Survey

Survey Report – Strategic Communication

The OSU Alumni Survey is a survey designed to collect information about OSU graduated students. More specifically, it is designed to collect information on their career, educational achievements, and their experience with OSU. This information will be used to improve academic programs and student experiences at OSU for generations to come. This survey targeted alumni of undergraduate and graduate programs who received their degree in 2013 and/or 2017. The survey was administered online by OSU-University Assessment and Testing (UAT) in April 2019 through June 2019. Departments may request additional information by contacting UAT (assessment@okstate.edu).

Survey Questions

Respondents were asked 37 institutional level items. Institutional level items were given to all OSU alumni and the items consisted of six topics: continuing education, well-being and community, demographic information, academic satisfaction, career reflection, and current job or career information.

36. What could OSU have done to better serve you?
Required classes in personal budget and finance prior to graduation. Given adequate funding to the School of Journalism, ESPECIALLY the facilities.
OSU could have invested more money into the journalism school and quality professors who have real experience in the advertising world.
I would have liked to of had more required graphic design classes that allowed you to work with print vendors and how that process works. I also would have liked a few more professor options for some classes. Of course, students have the responsibility to adequately perform in a class, but not every teaching style is right for every student and if the student just can't follow a specific teaching style well it can be a great hindrance.
Make a blend of Marketing and Business. A ton of advertising majors and business majors end up in Sales. Provide more courses for hybrids.
I received a degree in Strategic Communications, and due to the broadness of the degree, I was unsure as to what type of jobs I should apply for, or even which positions existed (by title). When searching on sites like LinkedIn or Indeed, it is important to know exactly what to look for...and I didn't. I would type in broad terms like marketing and communications or public relations and miss out on potential opportunities.
Nothing, I had a wonderful experience!
Have a class, during senior year, that specializes in after graduation success. Job applications, interviews, and others. We were required to participate in freshman orientation, we should do an exiting class that prepares us for real world experience.
More strategic thinking; practical instruction on how to be successful in a work environment
There were a lot of instances where my degree specific programs did not prepare me for real world scenarios. We had several classes where it was very easy to slack off or do enough to get by to make an A.
Had a financial peace plan for students and a class for first generation students to see what to learn from college their sophomore year.
Made the environment more inclusive and hired professors more mature
More specific field education and job exploration, more networking in the advertising industry
I would have a class on employers benefits helpful. For example information on 401K investment, health insurances plans and financial investments in general.
It was difficult to commute and made it hard to find meaningful internships/jobs while attending OSU. I've also found it more difficult to find work where I'm compensated fairly than before I attended OSU. Prior to finishing my degree, I had multiple years of experience, so it would have been nice to have more support for older students/continued education students and not fit them into the cookie-cutter advice from advisors.
Focus more on a public relations career path for communications students (I.e. how to talk to a reporter, develop a message that aligns with a strategic plan, etc.)
There is a lack of availability with much-needed courses. Every enrollment date was incredibly stressful.
I think it would be cool if internships were required. I feel like I didn't get a lot of on the job experience.
More classes focused on practical skills vs theoretical knowledge. AP Style class was the most applicable one I took. More coursework about social media or BUSINESS (not personal use), social media advertising, booking advertising in general, how to pitch stories, working with media, how to interview, etc.
I wish I had gotten more information on how to use the OSU job board - honestly I only remembered it after I graduated and even then I didn't really feel comfortable with it.
Talk to students more about student loans and how those loans impact your future
I loved OSU and will always be loyal and true. But, the buildings and classrooms were outdated during my time at OSU. Since I left, the new business building has opened and while I understand new facilities aren't free, I do think that the Journalism School could use a face lift.
Taught more real life education, lessened the amount of credits I had to take that was totally irrelevant (electives like entomology), had better internship opportunities, had more job fairs, had better connections with businesses and corporations that hire people with the degree I was getting, adjusted curriculum to match what jobs are actually needing new hires to do rather than just teaching what has always been taught.
The journalism building is pretty sad in terms of classrooms. It needs a major upgrade.

36. What could OSU have done to better serve you? (Continued)

I think a required Gen-ed "lifestyle" class should be made for all Freshmen or Senior capstone. A class where you learn about Banking, Taxes, Mortgages, 401K's and Healthcare. All of that is vital to living on your own and something I never learned in a classroom setting.
Career Services doesn't work for every major. Greater emphasis on portfolio and writing work for Strategic Communication students, allowing them access to entry level jobs
I think OSU lacks practical skills teaching (finances, business etiquette, etc. - especially in the Journalism school).
Helping with budgeting skills, taxes and other life skills. Helping me really figure out what career I want.
It's really my fault for not taking college as seriously as I should have, but turned out fine and have a great job paying me extremely well.
Better academic advisors
I wish there were more ways to get OSU related internships. I had to stay in stillwater and work full time between semesters so most internships weren't an option for me. More (both in quantity and field diversity) internships on campus would have been incredible.

37. What additional information would you like OSU to know?

Although I am satisfied with my education, I know there were many things lacking from a budget point of view in my school (Paul Miller). We did not have access to enough platforms necessary for the job we would be doing post-grad. It seems quite obvious from a student point of view which departments mattered and which ones the university didn't care much about.
I had a great time in Stilly at OSU and will cherish many of the memories I made there.
Great Campus, great experience, try not to lose Stillwaters old feel as you grow.
I would be cool with receiving more alumni communications.
I moved to Denver, CO after graduating, and I worked at a restaurant for a year before I was able to secure a job in my field. I had an amazing experience at OSU, and I wouldn't change a thing! I feel nostalgia for it all the time. Although I enjoyed most of my classes and learned a lot, my best experiences revolved around my favorite extracurricular activities - Latin Dancing and Cultural Club, Camp Cowboy, and Chi Omega.
Overall, I'm glad I picked my major and picked OSU. However, when I hear about other programs from other schools, I feel like their students were more adequately prepared for a job
I loved ok state I have not found a job how every because I don't have enough experience which is my fault but I would have liked a class teaching me how to handle my self to get the most out of my college experience
I'm willing to share more with SMSC
I loved my time at OSU and I would never pick another school. Go Pokes!
There are a lot of SMSC grads across the country that want to help create networks for current OSU students. Utilize that network to help broaden students' perceptions of where they can go and what they can do with the degree.
It was the best four years of my life. I miss it everyday and have so many wonderful memories. I made lifelong friendships, met the love of my life and received an incredible education. I wouldn't trade my time there for the world.
Regarding the top ten seniors or top ten freshman honorary programs, I feel that the selection process is somewhat biased and favors Greek students heavily. For those individuals who pay for their own school, work through college, acquire internships, remain involved and get exceptional grades - it doesn't seem to hold as much weight as students who were a part of Greek life in college. Many of those individuals were not required to work, so their time was spent with Greek activities and volunteer opportunities. I feel this selection process should be re-evaluated and that the university should also focus on the individuals who are not involved in Greek life and also work incredibly hard for their future.
In general, I had an awesome college experience. I loved every minute at OSU and it has definitely changed my life. 10/10 would recommend
I loved my time at OSU. Go Pokes!
The alumni base is incredible. I've met many friends at OSU and many more after.
OSU gave way to so many opportunities and helped shape me into who I am today.

37. What additional information would you like OSU to know? (Continued)

The Paul Miller Journalism building desperately needs to be modified.

I talk HIGHLY about OSU and the program I was in. I would do it again.

On the question "if you were to start over, would you still have attended OSU," I selected "probably not." It's nothing to do with my experience being negative! After 7 semesters, I realized that my true passion and career goal is filmmaking (thank you XXX and XXX) which isn't something you can focus on at OSU. If I could start over, I would have gone to film school instead of a traditional university. Go Pokes always though!!
